Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE,

I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. Any warrants forwarded to the subscriber, will be located on such land as he may suppose most likely to please his employers. CADWALLADER WALLACE.
Chillicothe, (Ohio) April 15 19t*

For Sale or Lease,

THE following tracts of land in Charles county, Maryland; one lying on the Potomac, at the mouth of Pomonkey creek, containing three hundred and forty acres, about 16 miles from Alexandria, the larger portion level land, of a stiff soil, well adapted to the cultivation of corn, wheat and tobacco, and equal in fertility to any in the neighborhood. On this farm is one of the most elegant sites for building of all those fine heights which border the Potomac, commanding the most extendive view of the adjacent country, both in Virginia and Maryland, for more than twenty miles up and down the river: located in a genteel neighborhood, it would make an agreeable residence, and from its proximity to market, with the advantage of the best navigation, an extremely profitable farm.—The tenant's houses would accommodate the negroes for its cultivation.

A Tract, about one mile back from the former, containing 334 acres, a large portion in wood, white and red oak, and some chesnut; the remainder a tenement in tolerable repair, the whole a high stiff soil, similar to the one above mentioned.

A Tract, lying at the mouth of Mattawoman Creek, about 25 miles from Alexandria, the whole first rate flat river land, now completely enclosed.—On this tract is a noted fishery, called Rum Point, at which there has been cleared upwards of two thousand dollars per annum, and where independent of the fish sold on the shore, there might be put up from one to two thousand barrels every season; besides the profits of the fishery, the advantage of manuring the farm with the offal of the shore, the whole, with a small portion of industry, might be made to produce ten barrels of corn per acre. On the shore, are a dwelling house, houses for holding salt, and curing any quantity of fish, and for the accommodation of hands.

A Tract, lying about 1½ miles from the last mentioned, containing 236 acres, more than 200 of which are in wood, and would cut from 25 to 30 cords per acre, within one mile of the river, where wood has rarely sold for less than five dollars per cord. It will be divided into 50 or 25 acre lots, to suit purchasers.—If preferred, the wood will be sold standing, for so much per acre.

If not disposed of, previous to the first day of Sept. next, the above mentioned arable lands, will be leased out, upon advantageous terms, for five or seven years, at the option of the lessees.

Application to be made to the subscriber, residing near the head of Mattawoman Creek, Charles county, Maryland.

THE WISH OF A FAIR ONE.

I wish and I sign for a careful conductor,
To guide and direct me whilst here I do roam; [Mentor,
As wise and as faithful as good ancient
Who counsell'd and guided Ulyses' brave son.

I wish for a guide who is knowing and faithful, [mind;
And loving and virtuous in heart and in
Who scorns and detests the bad and deceitful,— [the kind:
Who loves and delights in the good and
Whose home to his taste is his mansion of pleasure,— [delight;
The one whom he guards his heart's true
His heart a pure vessel for love without measure— [right.
His hand to protect and to do what is

How oft I'm bereav'd of good counsel and pleasure, [guide,
For want of a faithful and good hearted
To instruct and divert when my mind is at leisure, [side.
Or guard and defend me along the street

Is earth so deprav'd and the world so estrang'd, [my wander:
In this the good day of my search and
Shall I sigh and repine till my mind is derang'd,
And die in depair in search of a Mentor?

Alas! tho' the age of good Mentors are past, [found;
Yet Calypso's fond passion is still to be
And whilst we exist, and our natures' do last, [abound.
Telemachus's and Eucharis's still will

A Mentor in wedlock's a Mentor indeed,—
If faithful, a spring to every sweet passion; [grieve,
Then why be distress'd, and why do I
For one to protect and shew preservation?

STATE PRISON CONSPIRACY.

An attempt was made this morning at 6 o'clock, by ten convicts, to escape from the state prison. They first seized one of the keepers inside, and took from him his pistol, which they threw over the prison wall; they offered no further violence to that keeper, than this. They then proceeded with a large piece of timber, 18 inches in circumference, and 2 feet long, and endeavored to force open the prison door by striking against the lock. The outside keeper immediately appeared at this door, and fired his pistol at one of them, which passed near him, but did not hit him. They then left the front door, and proceeded to the sewer, which runs under the prison yard, and attempted to break through in that direction, when they were seized and safely lodged in the cells. KELLY, who was tried and acquitted on a charge of murdering Garrett, but convicted of burglary, was the ringleader in this conspiracy, which was thus promptly defeated by the energy and firmness of the keepers.—Having received our information from one of the keepers, this concise account may be relied on as substantially correct.

INTERESTING TO LUMBER DEALERS.

It will be seen by the following extract of a letter from a gentleman in Barbados to a mercantile house in Hamilton, that a gross deficiency has been detected between the marks and real measurement of lumber sent from the United States to Barbados, via Bermuda. The editor of the Bermuda Gazette, commenting on these occurrences, (as detrimental to the interest of our commerce, as derogatory to the honor of the American trader,) observes, "Loud complaints are made by the merchants in the West Indies, of the deficiency in the measurement of lumber received through this Colony from the States. To obviate it, sworn measurers should be appointed, or else the consignees here should take care not to receive lumber from the Americans without having it properly measured themselves. Letters have been received not from Jamaica only, but from other islands, complaining of this fraud. The following is an extract from a letter from a gentleman in Barbados, to a mercantile house in Hamilton:—

"On delivering the scantling, I was much mortified to find it excessively overmarked and have been in consequence subjected to a vexatious delay, as well as a charge of 2 dols. per M. for remeasuring the same; besides the loss, which as far as we have yet gone, shows it to be seven per cent. I would recommend you in future to ship no lumber in this way: as in spite of all you can say, it leaves an impression on the people's minds you are selling to, that some knowledge of the overcharge remains with the seller. In this instance I was entirely ignorant of it, as had I known it had been discovered in Bermuda, I should have stated the circumstances accordingly."

We hope that those more immediately interested in the tendency of such fraudulent transactions, will lose no time in searching out the source of and applying a corrective to the evil. Such conduct should be severely reprehended.

New-York, July 28.

SPANISH JUSTICE PROMPTLY ADMINISTERED.

In the arrival of the United States schooner Enterprize, lieutenant Kearney, from Omoa, on the Spanish Main, with the mate and one of the seamen of the schooner Retrieve, of this port, we have an evidence of the readiness with which the Spanish authorities of that place, have lent their assistance in punishing piracy committed against our citizens, and of their desire to restore immediately the plunder taken by the pirates. It will be recollected that while the schooner Retrieve was performing a voyage from this port to Vera Cruz, the mate and crew rose upon the captain—killed him, and carried away his vessel to Omoa; that the transaction was there discovered—the culprits arrested and thrown into prison, and immediate intelligence conveyed to this country. Upon application by the owners and insurers in this city to our government, the Enterprize was sent out there last May for the purpose of receiving the pirates and murderers, and bringing them here for trial. Lieutenant Kearney carried a recommendatory letter from the Spanish minister at Washington, and upon his arrival the Retrieve and her cargo were delivered up to the agent, who went out in the Enterprize to take possession of her, and the vessel has sailed for Vera Cruz, the port of her original destination. The men were also delivered up, and have now arrived at this place.

This is a proceeding which must be gratifying to hear of, the more particularly as we could not have much right to expect it, when we consider how different is the fate of Spanish and Portuguese property brought into our country under circumstances nearly similar. In this instance the property was delivered up as soon as requested.—But the Spanish and Portuguese have to wade through a mass of legal forms and delays, and if they succeed at all, get at length nothing but the proceeds of forced sales at reduced prices, encumbered with costs and expenses which swallow up one half, besides the loss in the original sale. From the organization of our courts, these delays are in some measure unavoidable—but it were to be wished that the government, by energetic measures, would destroy that system of piracy which causes these depredations, and which has so long been a stigma on our country.

From the Richmond Enquirer, July 31.

PIRACY.

CASE OF THE IRRESISTABLE.

[Concluded.]

On Tuesday morning the argument commenced—and we are sorry we cannot pursue it in detail. There were both eloquence and ingenuity displayed on the occasion. Mr. Stanard addressed the jury about an hour—On the part of the prisoner Mr. Wickham spoke about half an hour, and Mr. Stevenson about an hour. Mr. Stanard closed on the part of the United States.

The counsel on the part of the United States laid down the law, and analysed the evidence—he called upon the jury, among other things, to lend their aid in putting down that system of brigandage, which was tarnishing the reputation of our country, and demoralizing our seamen. He cited the following passage from Bynkershoeck to shew what was piracy as defined by the laws of nations;

"We call pirates and plunderers those, who, without the authorization of any sovereign, commit depredations by sea or land," &c. &c.

The counsel on the other side, contended that the words of the act of congress were too vague and loose, to authorize the jury to dip their hands in the blood of a fellow citizen; that piracy was a general term, not clearly nor sufficiently defined in the law of nations; that the great fathers of the church to whom you would look for a definition, gave no satisfaction upon it. What says Grotius? Not one syllable.—Puffendorf? Profoundly silent.——What Barbeyrac? Domat? Rutherford? Montesquieu? Wolfius? Vattel? Not a solitary word, by way of definition: and the reason was, that it had been left to the municipal laws of different countries to define it, and therefore the law of nations had not. We have only the definition of one Dutchman, Bynkershoeck, and even with that his commentator Du Ponceau had expressed his dissatisfaction: And, yet the jury were to say upon their oaths that piracy had been defined by the law of nations.—Why did not congress do their duty, in the exercise of their constitutional powers, and make a rule which might be understood by the judiciary of the country? If they failed in doing their duty, it was their own look out; but surely no jury would take upon themselves to say by their verdict the law had been defined when it was not; or upon such vague, general expressions, take the life of a fellow citizen.—The counsel by way of analogy attempted to show that if congress had referred to other cases as defined by the law of nations, as territorial jurisdiction, the right of search, &c. how discordant the writers, and how unsettled the doctrines are upon these subjects—Men too, highly distinguished in this country, had differed upon the definition of piracy. The gentleman who presided in that court, had in another place (in congress) in the case of Jonathan Robbins, declared that not only an actual robbery, but cruizing on the high seas, without a commission, and with intent to rob, was piracy.—Whereas, now, the U. States attorney says actual robbery is necessary to constitute the offence. Reference was also had to the constitution by which congress is to define piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, & offences against the law of nations, to show, that the former are distinguished from the latter, as if not ranked among "the offences against the law of nations."—The evidence was then analized, and commented on—It was the testimony of accomplices (always suspicious) and here brought from the duresse of a jail, taking its color from the hopes and fears of the witnesses. It was attempted to be proven that they had contradicted themselves, and each other; that there was no satisfactory evidence of this being a Spanish vessel as charged in the indictment; that this act of congress was passed but ten days before they left Margarita: they could not have known of it; and therefore it is as to them in the light of an ex post facto law, &c. &c. A particular and pathetic appeal was made in favor of Poole, who had served gallantly in the navy of his country during the late war.

Mr. Stanard replied to both gentlemen at considerable length. He denied the vagueness which was ascribed to the law of nations on the subject of piracy, and the other points touched upon. He supported the authority of Bynkershoeck, Vattel, B. 4, ch. 19, had denounced "all villains who, by the quality and habitual frequency of their crimes, violate all public security, and declare themselves enemies of the human race. Thus pirates are brought to the gibbet by the first into whose hands they fall!" Blackstone, the Vade mecum of all lawyers, says, "A pirate is an enemy of the human race." Even if writers on the law of nations had adopted different definitions of piracy, where was the definition of it that would not embrace the case of these men—whose lawless depredations came up to any definition of it which had ever been given? After developing this idea with great force, and ridiculing the pretensions, that had been suggested, that these men had the right, under the commission belonging to the Irresistable, to capture Spanish property, he returned to the analysis of the testimony; he showed why the testimony of accomplices should be received; otherwise the most atrocious offences might escape with impunity. He concluded by a strong appeal to the Jury in favor of the law—that the honor of our country required that the law should be put in force, against brigands who not only sallied from its waters, to collect plunder, but returned to them as the scene for its partition, and as a sanctuary where they expected to escape the punishment of their crimes.

CHARGE OF THE COURT.

The Court then charged the jury in substance, that the prisoner at the bar was indicted for cruizing on the high seas without any commission, and boarding and plundering a Spanish vessel or vessels belonging to some power to the jurors unknown, and piratically taking out of such vessel a sum of money, which the crew divided among themselves. The essential objects of enquiry were, whether the prisoner at the bar was engaged in such cruise without a commission, whether the robbery charged in the indictment was committed by him and others so cruizing as aforesaid, and whether the fact amounted to piracy under the act of Congress.

The fact of cruizing and plundering the Spanish vessel was proved by the testimony of accomplices, and it was contended by the counsel for the prisoner that they were totally unworthy of credit.

It is undoubtedly true that the testimony of accomplices is to be heard with suspicion; and if their testimony should be improbable or contradicted by circumstances, or by other testimony; the jury might justifiably discredit it: but if all the circumstances of the case, circumstances which could not be mistaken or misrepresented, corroborated the testimony of the accomplice, and in fact were merely connected by that testimony, it would be going too far to say that the facts supplied by the witness were to be disregarded because he was an accomplice. But in this case one of the witnesses—Donald, had been acquitted by the Grand Jury, because he was forced on board the vessel, and his testimony concurred with that of the other witnesses in all that was material.

If the robbery was committed, their next enquiry would be, whether the vessel committing it, sailed under a lawful commission.

There was not only no testimony whatever of a commission, but all the facts given in evidence were totally incompatible with the idea of sailing under any authority whatever. The crew of one vessel had mutinied, seized another vessel, and proceeded on a cruize under officers elected by themselves.

The question whether the case came within this act of Congress was one of more difficulty. It was impossible that the act could apply to any case if not to this. The case was undoubtedly piracy according to the understanding and practice of all nations. It was a case in which all nations surrendered their subjects to the punishment which any government might inflict upon them, and one in which all admitted the right of each to take and exercise jurisdiction. Yet the standard referred to by the act of Congress, as expressed in that act, must be admitted, to be so vague as to allow of some doubt. The writers on the law of nations give us no definition of the crime of piracy. Under the doubts arising from this circumstance, the court recommended it to the jury to find a special verdict which might submit the law to the more deliberate consideration of the court.

The jury retired but for a few moments, and brought in a special verdict, similar to the one which we have given in full below.

A jury was then impannelled, and the case of ten others of the crew (charged in the same indictment) was, with their consent, submitted at once to trial; the evidence gone through, and the jury returned the following special verdict:

We of the jury find that the Prisoners Baily Durfey, William Chappels alias William Chappel, Daniel Phillips, Jas. Thomas alias James West, Daniel Livingston, Luke Jackson, Stephen Sydney, Peter Nelson, Isaac Sales, and Peter Johnston, were in the month of March, 1819, part of the crew of a private armed vessel called the Creola (commissioned by the government of Buenos Ayres, a colony then at war with Spain,) lying in the port of Margaritta; that in the month of March, 1819, the said prisoners and others of the crew mutinied, confined their officers, left the vessel, and in the said port of Margaritta, seized by violence a vessel called the Irresistable, a private armed vessel lying in that port, commissioned by the government of Artigas, who was also at war with Spain; that the said prisoners and others having so possessed themselves of the said vessel the Irresistable, appointed their officers, proceeded to sea on a cruize without any documents or commission whatever, and while on that cruize, in the month of April, 1819, on the high seas, committed the offence charged in the indictment, by the plunder and robbery of the Spanish vessel therein mentioned. If the plunder and robbery aforesaid be piracy under the act of the Congress of the United States, entitled "An act to protect the commerce of the United States and to punish the crime of piracy"—then We find the said prisoners, severally and respectively, guilty; if the plunder and robbery above stated be not piracy under the said act of Congress, then we find them not guilty. JOHN G. GAMBLE, Foreman.

The court then adjourned.

Wednesday—John Green was put to the bar under the 1st indictment. The defence set up for him was, that he had been forced to join the enterprize, and did not assent to the proceedings of the others.—The defence failed, and the same special verdict given as in the case of the ten others.

Same defence and result in the case of Thomas Smith.

Henry Anry, alias Henry And ris, & John Fuller, were put to the bar—same defence and same special verdict.

John Allen Stedman and John Waldon were tried at once under the 2d indictment for robbing a Dutch vessel. Neither of them belonged to the crews of the Creola or Irresistable; but were part of the crew of the Atlas, an American vessel, they spoke at sea, bound from Teneriffe to New-Orleans. They joined the Irresistable. The defence set up, was that they were ignorant of the character of the vessel when they joined her. Verdict of acquittal.—(These men were not indicted for robbing the Spanish vessel which was posterior to their joining.)

Thomas Watson put to the bar under the 1st indictment—he came out of a Danish barque or Dutch brig—no vessel proved to be robbed after he joined them—Acquitted.

Francis Oglesby, charged under the first indictment, was one of the Irresistable—the defence was, he could not safely leave her after he was captured. A special verdict (with few variations) similar to the rest.

The court adjourned.

LAST CLASS OF CASES.

Yesterday, the court proceeded to try William Chappels, charged under the 3d indictment with robbing an American vessel (the Superior of Baltimore.) This indictment, as will appear from the former elucidations, rests, not upon the act of 1819, but of 1790. The first, relates to Foreign vessels; the last, by the decision of the Supreme Court, to our own.

Mr Stanard on behalf of the U. States—On that of the prisoner Mr. W. Wickham and Mr. James Riddle, who at the request of the court, assisted in the defence.

Black, a witness on the part of the prosecution, and who had been first Lt. on board the Irresistable, stated that the captain of the Superior came on board the privateer, the captain of which (Ferguson) knew him to be an American captain, (an acquaintance of F's. at Baltimore) that the American captain told F. he had Spanish passengers and property, on board his schooner; and that F. then gave instructions to his boarding crew, to respect the American property, but to bring with them all the valuables they could find on board belonging to the Spanish passengers—Black stated that he was told by F. that this captain was an American captain; and says that he himself saw the American register.

The counsel for the prisoner asked if he knew the register to be a genuine one—to which he replied he did not.

They then moved the court to instruct the jury, 1st, that to prove her to be an American vessel, it was necessary that her register, or an authenticated copy of it should be produced in court; 2dly, that the capture of Spanish property in an American vessel was not piracy under the act of Congress.

The Chief Justice observed, he had little doubt such a capture was an act of piracy in the eye of the law, and as to the other point, he should suspend his opinion. But, if the jury should be inclined to think, that the Superior was an American vessel, he recommended it to them to bring in a special verdict, reserving the question whether she could be proved to be American property without the production of her register, or a copy under seal—And that they might also reserve the point as to the Spanish property found on board of her.

The jury retired, and brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The U. S. Attorney then stated to the court, that he had no further business for a jury, and they were accordingly discharged—the witness recognized to appear at the next term of the court in November next.

The other cases under the 3d indictment will lie over until the prosecution can obtain the register, and other evidence as to the fact of American ownership.

The point growing out of the act of Congress of 1819, and reserved in the several special verdicts, will probably be adjourned to the Supreme Court at Washington.

In the case of Thomas Watson a nole pros. has been entered up by the attorney. The other prisoners will probably remain in jail until the winter, to await their fate.

☞We have taken some little pains to report these cases to the public. The scenes of outrages on the high seas which they develope, belong to the history of the times. Such scenes ought to be understood. To repress them, should be the wish of every American, who values his country, her character and her laws. We owe it to the civilized world to arrest such lawless outrages, perpetrated by vessels and by crews who have their equipment and their sanctuary in our own ports. If the law be so weak that pirates can escape through its meshes, let us strengthen it. Let Congress do their duty, and not leave it to judges and juries to do it for them. If the law then be undefined in its provisions, let them give clearer and more practical definitions.

New-York, July 31.

MORE PIRACY!

We learn from a passenger in the brig Arethusa, Capt. Leslie, which arrived yesterday, in 24 days from the Balize, that a small piratical row-boat, full of men, came into the Balize and boarded two vessels lying there, and took from one of them upwards of eight hundred dollars in specie, and robbed the other of all her small stores. She then boarded the ship Governor Griswold, which was the last our informant saw of her.

Lands for Sale.

BY VIRTUE of a power of attorney from William S. Courts to the subscriber, will be sold at public sale.

On WEDNESDAY, the 18th AUGUST, in Port Tobacco, that valuable tract of land whereon John H. Barnes at present resides called lying and being in Charles county Maryland, containing between three and four hundred acres. This land is handsomely situated, lying immediately on Mattawoman Creek, at least one third of which is in wood, with a sufficient quantity of marsh land for grazing—that part of the land which is in cultivation is well adapted to the growth of corn, wheat and tobacco, and with proper care would be equal, if not superior to any land in that neighborhood.

Whitland and Cole,

ALSO,

At the same time and place, will be offered for sale the plantation at present in the occupancy of Francis & Sam'l Wheeler, lying about one mile from the above place, containing about four hundred acres. As it is presumed that persons wishing to purchase will first view the premises, it is thought unnecessary to give a more particular description thereof. The terms of sale will be as follows; viz. possession given on the first day of January next, at which time one third of the purchase money will be required, the remaining two thirds at one and two years the purchaser giving bond with approved security with interest.—Upon the payment of the whole purchase money, a sufficient deed will be executed to the purchaser.

Sale of Valuable Land.

BY virtue of a deed of trust, the subscriber will offer at public sale, at Mr. Hardy's tavern, Piscataway, on Thursday, 5th August, next, several tracts or parcels of land, on Mattawoman Run, about three miles from Piscataway, lying partly in Prince George's county, and partly in Charles county, called and known by the names of Strife, Bonton enlarged, Friendship & Smallwood's meadows, Thompson's Hoop Thickets, and four acres of land adjoining, containing in the whole 420 acres, 1 rood, 18 perch. more or less; which said lands were heretofore conveyed by Thomas Mundell, esq. trustee for the sale of the real estate of N. Blacklock, late of Charles co. deceased, to N. F. Blacklock, late of Alexandria, and by him to the subscriber.

These lands have been, I am told, considerably improved lately by the use of clover and plaster: their susceptibility of still further improvement by these easy means, and their nearness to the Potomac, render them certainly very desirable.

Terms of sale—two thousand dollars to be paid on the day of sale, and the balance on the 1st day of January, 1820, when possession will be given. Upon the payment of the whole of the purchase money, the subscriber will execute a good and sufficient deed, conveying to the purchaser all the right and title of the late N. F. Blacklock, subject to the widow's dower.

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25
